

It Didn't Work For Iowa's Middle Class

In Iowa, "The Shaky State Of The National Economy Is Obama's Biggest Vulnerability"

In Iowa, "County Leaders Agree, The Shaky State Of The National Economy Is Obama's Biggest Vulnerability." "The unemployment rate in Iowa's 12 hottest swing counties ranges from 3.7 percent (Carroll) to 7.5 percent (Hamilton). Across the board, county leaders agree, the shaky state of the national economy is Obama's biggest vulnerability." (Jennifer Jacobs, "Campaigns Battle Over 12 Iowa Swing Counties," Des Moines Register, 8/5/12)

- The Lack Of Iowans Enthusiasm For Obama Is Because Of The High Unemployment. "One explanation for their dearth of enthusiasm can be summed up by the news on the first Friday morning of each month: the unemployment report. Each lackluster economic report, like the one two days ago that pinpointed the jobless rate unchanged at 8.2 percent, reinforces the sense among Iowans that the country is on the wrong track." (Jennifer Jacobs, "Battling For Every Iowa Vote," Des Moines Register, 7/9/12)

- In The Dismal Recovery, "Middle Class Jobs Have Been Replaced By McJobs." "We said goodbye to more than eight million jobs in the downturn; we've added around four million back. It's easy and dismal math. But there's another painful dimension to this recovery that's gotten far less attention than the lingering jobs deficit. It's the fact that most of the jobs we lost offered decent pay, while the ones we're adding are mostly low-level, service sector positions. Middle class jobs have been replaced by McJobs." (Jordan Weissmann, "Our Low-Wage Recovery: How McJobs Have Replaced Middle Class Jobs," The Atlantic, 8/31/12)
- From June 2009 To June 2012, Real Median Annual Household Incomes Have Fallen By Nearly $4,000, From $54,916 To $50,964 "Real median annual household income fell to $53,508 from $54,916 during the 18-month recession from December 2007 to June 2009, according to the firm's study of income data for the 36-month period ended in June 2012. Incomes kept falling during the 36-month period since then, dropping to $50,964 in June 2012." (Jeff Kearns, "U.S. Incomes Fell More In Recovery, Sentier Says," Bloomberg, 8/23/12)
- Americans Of Every Demographic Earn Less Today Than They Did In June 2009. "Across the country, in almost every demographic, Americans earn less today than they did in June 2009, when the recovery technically started. As of June, the median household income for all Americans was $50,964, or 4.8 percent lower than its level three years earlier, when the inflation-adjusted median income was $53,508."
