

They Said It!

Rep. Henry Waxman (D-CA) On Messina Controversy: White House Records Are "Owned By The American People"

Rep. Henry Waxman (D-CA): White House Records Are "Owned By The American People." "Rep. Henry Waxman (D-Calif.), who had demanded that Bush aides preserve emails after the controversy surfaced, did offer a statement. 'The Presidential Records Act was enacted to ensure that White House records are preserved for history and are owned by the American people,' Waxman said in a statement." (Sam Stein, "President Obama Attacked By GOP For Failing To Meet His Own Ethics Standards," The Huffington Post, 8/1/12)

- Waxman: "Everyone Who Is Covered By The Law Should Follow It, Regardless Of Which Party Controls The White House." (Sam Stein, "President Obama Attacked By GOP For Failing To Meet His Own Ethics Standards," The Huffington Post, 8/1/12)